

During this project, I was able to implement the algorithms we practice in class. I was also able to practice my java. The hardest thing about this project was implementing the algorithm while keeping the UML diagram that was requested.

